PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Thank you to all our Veterans !

It was at 11am on November 11, 1918, that a temporary peace, or armistice, was signed and the fighting during World War I came to an end. A year later President Woodrow Wilson announced that November 11th would be called Armistice Day in the United States. Don't forget, at 11:00 a.m. on Veteran's Day a moment of silence is observed for those who have served.

2022 was a busy year at Club Corvette as we resumed many of our normal activities that were previously curtailed by Covid 19. One of my personal goals for 2023 is to increase our Club activities and have "something for everyone" during the year. Bob Guertin will be joining our executive board in 2023 as a director at Large with an emphasis on events. We have 12 events in the early planning stages and have many more that we can add, if you have any suggestions, and especially if you would like to help organize an event, please let us know. Mark your calendars for May 13th, this will be our 2nd annual members only car show at Hammonasset, Frank Bugaj and I are working on the details now. We will also celebrate the Club's 30th anniversary with a 3-day weekend, a bit of a challenge as we want to hold it over a weekend so that all can attend, and still make the cost reasonable. Weekend prices escalate enormously, but we have 2 locations we are working with now where we get reasonable weekend rates in the late spring or early fall.

The Ocean City Md. Free State Corvette show was a great weekend, with 26 members attending. Congratulations to Sue Wadyka who took 1st place in the C5 category with her 2004 Commemorative Edition Z06. The parade down the boardwalk is the highlight for Lucy & me, and all cars participating were greeted by a flock of flamingos at the end of the parade route. Everyone outdid themselves with the flamingo theme including a Dennis White with his handsome flamingo print shirt.

We will close out December with our holiday party and Korvettes for Kids on December 3rd and 4th. Dennis Krajewski has been working hard on the holiday party & has a few surprises in store for our members. We have had almost 50 members pay the party so far and we anticipate between 65 and 80 to attend. Get your checks in asap as we will be giving a final count soon.

Lastly, the election of officers and board members was held at the November meeting. I am very happy to have the entire board returning with the exception of Joyce Baiardi who has reached her 3-year term and plans to enjoy her retirement to the fullest. My sincerest thanks to all the board members who serve to make our club the best it can be.

Additionally, I will be returning as your president in 2023 for one more year and will be appointed by the board on January 1st, 2023, to that position. While I have reached my full-term limit of 4 years, it is very humbling to be asked to stay on for one more year and I will do my absolute very best to keep our club moving in a positive direction.

Rick

FUTURE NEWSLETTER ARTICLES

We really need your help in writing articles for the newsletter. You have responded very well with photos of events, but we also need more articles. Anyone who organizes an event should prepare a write-up for the newsletter after the event or ask someone in the group to do it. You don't have to be concerned with the spelling or grammar - I'll take care of that. That's my job as editor.

I also look forward to any tips you can contribute to the newsletter to help your fellow members. Let's try to continue the "Tips From Members" section of the Vette Gazette, similar to what you see in your car magazines.

Send your inputs directly to my email lgbrowne1109@gmail.com. Do not send them through the Club's group email.

Thank you.

Z06's are Rolling off the Trucks

According to Corvette Blogger, Z06's are rolling off the trucks at Ciocca Corvette of Atlantic City! Jeff Duda of Zipity's Garage captured the big moment.

Once the Corvettes were off the truck and lined up in front of the showroom, Jeff gave us one of his hallmark dealer walkthroughs.

First up is an Elkhart Lake Blue Z07 with the 3LZ Blue interior. Next is a 70th Anniversary Convertible in White Pearl without a Z07 package. It does, however, have the Carbon Flash Metallic level 3 spoiler. Check it out! Another White Pearl 70th Anniversary Edition Coupe wears the Z07 package. With the two cars together, you can see the difference in look; Black mirrors vs. White body-color mirrors and the Carbon Flash A-Pillars on the Convertible next to the White pillars on the Coupe. Another contrast is an Arctic White Convertible parked next to the White Pearl 70th Anniversary Edition. A Black Z07 70th Anniversary Edition Convertible rounds out the delivery.

Configure Your Perfect Z06

Official 2023 C8 Z06 Configurator Is Now Live

While Chevy will let you configure your perfect 2023 Z06, unfortunately, the new Corvette Z06 is no longer available to order. In August, GM Authority reported that the 2023 Corvette Z06 production was heavily constrained by supplier delays. Since then, supplier setbacks have deteriorated even further, with GM no longer accepting orders for the new Corvette Z06. It's unclear if GM will reopen orders or if they will instead wait for the 2024 model year to take more orders.

The two body styles listed on the configurator include a Coupe and a Convertible. Trim levels include the 1LZ, 2LZ, and 3LZ. Notable upgrades include the Z07 Performance Package, which throws in Z07-specific suspension with Magnetic Selective Ride Control, carbon ceramic brakes, and new carbon fiber aero bits.

Pricing starts at $106,695 for a 1LZ coupe, but if you select every option, the 3LZ Convertible can be spec'ed to more than $156,000.

This Corvette shouldn't exist, but you can own it!!!

Steven Cole Smith

Late this summer, the big orange Reliable Carriers 18-wheeler rolled up to Randy Kent's door in Sarasota, Florida, and a yellow 2021 Chevrolet Corvette rolled out. Kent, who describes himself as an "enthusiast," has a small car collection and he was happy to add the C8 Corvette, which he wanted as a daily driver.

It seemed like a pretty good deal when he bid on the car at the Barrett-Jackson auction in Las Vegas in July. The car had just over 50 miles on the odometer, and it was part of the GM Heritage collection. When bidding topped $100,000, Kent hoped it wouldn't go much higher. It didn't. Kent bid $104,500, and the car was his.

One of the things that appealed to Kent about the car was that it appeared to be an IMSA GTLM Championship C8.R Edition, a $6595 package when sold. Admitting that he didn't know that much about C8 Corvettes, he assumed that his car, which was sitting next to one such GTLM Championship Edition, was the same thing, just lacking the graphics. The VIN number ended in 000010, so Kent knew it was an early car.

The motorsports-inspired package was introduced at the IMSA race at Belle Isle, in Detroit, in June of 2021, honoring the 2020 season championship won by the C8.R race car. The package came with a high-wing spoiler in Carbon Flash, yellow brake calipers, black Trident design wheels with black lug nuts and the "Jake" logo on the center caps, exterior mirrors in Carbon Flash, plus black side rockers and splash guards. Inside, the Championship Edition features a Strike Yellow and Sky Cool Gray cabin that mimics the exterior yellow and gray racing theme, with standard GT2 seats, along with yellow seat belts and a C8.R Special Edition numbered plaque.

A plaque? Kent had missed that. Driving to lunch the next day, he glanced down, "and I did a doubletake." The plaque was there, between the seats, and it read, "C8R Edition 01EX."

EX, as in "experimental," 01, as in the first, and maybe only experimental car. Hmm. When the car arrived, it was quite dusty, so Kent took his California Duster to it. In several places, the Duster found some adhesive from the original C8.R stickers, which had been stripped off.

But wait. Kent's car is a 2021, though it was built in 2020. The C8.R Edition was for 2022, with Chevrolet building only a thousand. Kent had met a GM Design employee at Las Vegas, and they stayed in touch. Kent texted him a picture of the badge.

"Two seconds later," the GM employee called Kent. His first two words: "Oh, shit!" Kent was told the car was supposed to be stripped or even destroyed, but it was hiding in the Media Building at GM when the other cars met their fate. It had been used as a display car at IMSA races, and apparently was a photo car for GM brochures. And then it was supposed to meet its fate. But this one got away.

Bottom line: There were only supposed to be 1000 of the IMSA GTLM Championship C8.R Edition cars. Now there were 1001, and one of them was a 2021 model, while the rest were 2022s. Kent had one of one.

He thought about keeping it, but with such low mileage—it still has under 100 miles on the odometer—and its rare status, “I figured this car deserved to be in a collection.” GM sent a tech down the next day to erase some proprietary software, such as a program that has the car speaking to GM in real time, “telling them how it’s cornering, the spring rates, that sort of thing,” and apply some warning stickers. The changes make it a street-legal and entirely insurable car, Kent says.

Now the car is on bringatrailer.com. Bidding is up to $89,200 at this writing, but with four days left on the auction, it’s likely to go much higher. How much higher? Kent, who owns a boat cover company, isn’t sure. After all, “it’s one of one. How do you put a value on that?” A set of C8.R graphics is included with the car, but it looks awfully clean without them. Meanwhile, Kent bought a 2022 Corvette C8 to drive, with no backstory. And he’s hoping his C8.R-that-isn’t finds a good home.
